Planning

- The Planning Commission met last week and discussed three important items.
 - Beacon Hill Homes (756 30th Street): The proposal is for a small lot single-family project with nine homes. The Commission granted preliminary approval but requested revisions—including additional parking, water-wise landscaping, and clearer fencing and lighting details—prior to final approval. The associated subdivision plat was also tabled to align with the updated plan.
 - Affordable Housing on Patterson Street: The Ogden Housing Authority requested a rezone at 211 Patterson to permit construction of a 25-unit apartment building for young adults aging out of foster care. The Commission recommended approval, and the request will now move forward to the City Council.
 - Water Conservation Plan: The Commission recommended adoption of a new Water Use and Preservation Plan. This will guide how the city manages growth, updates old water lines, and encourages conservation through smart landscaping and irrigation. This is a state requirement that must be adopted by the end of year.
- Zone Ogden
 - The next Zone Ogden update will be provided at the You Make Ogden public engagement open house on October 22 at Union Station.

Other Department Activities

- Reported on the status of each Department Division's ongoing performance measures.
- Prepared a two-page briefing that outlines the economic, transportation, and site-readiness benefits of upcoming development at the Union Station Campus/Neighborhood to support planning discussions with state legislative leadership.
